Hello folks! Paulie Ciara here,

These links are what they are – free links. Though I do my best to ensure that 100% of these links are working at the time of the initial weekly release, there is always the possibility that the ability to leave links on some the following websites may be removed by the webmaster at some point.

What are backlinks?

A backlink is any link on any website that points "back" to your website. Search engine algorithms operate under the semi-correct assumption that if a webpage is lousy, nobody will link to it. Conversely, they also assume that if a webpage is good, people and websites throughout the web will naturally begin linking to it.

The classic analogy is that Google (and the other search engines) views backlinks as "votes" from other websites. Thus, if your webpage has one hundred backlinks from one hundred different websites, Google sees this as one hundred websites "vouching" for the importance, quality, and relevancy of your webpage. The more "votes" your webpage has, the more Google considers it a page worth giving importance to. The more important Google considers the webpage, the higher it will get ranked in the search engines. Long story short, the more backlinks you can get, the better off you'll be.

How do I use these packets?

Simply follow the step-by-step directions. When you reach the step where you leave your links, substitute "<http://www.yourdomain.com>" with your webpage URL, and substitute "your keywords" with the keyword phrase(s) you want your webpage ranked at the top of Google for.

Though my packets focus primarily on forum profile backlinks, it's always a good idea to round out your backlink portfolio by getting backlinks from a variety of different sources.

Do I have giveaway rights?

Of course! Feel free to share these packets wherever, however, and with whomever you please!
